$|a| = ?(a^2)$ Squaring a makes it positive or zero (for a as a Real Number). Then taking the square root will "undo" the squaring, but leave it positive or zero. $|a \times b| = |a| \times |b|$ Means these are the same: the absolute value of (a times b), and (the absolute value of a) times (the absolute value of b) Which can also be useful when solving

Algebra - Absolute Value Inequalities - Lamar University

Absolute value equations are equations where the variable is within an absolute value operator, like $|x-5|=9$. The challenge is that the absolute value of a number depends on the number's sign: if it's positive, it's equal to the number: $|9|=9$. If the number is negative, then the absolute value is its opposite: $|-9|=9$. So when we're dealing with a variable, we need to consider both cases.

Example: $x^2 < 5$. First, let us clear out the "/2" by multiplying both sides by 2. Because we are multiplying by a positive number, the inequalities will not change. $x^2 \times 2 < 5 \times 2$. $x^2 < 10$. Now add 3 to both sides: $x^2 + 3 < 10 + 3$. $x < 7$. And that is our solution: $x < 7$
