The easiest way to do this is to take the intersection and add to it the number of CS-only and math-only students:  $600 + 200 + 400 = 1200$ . This number represents the total number of students who are either a math or CS major (that is, the number of students in the union of the two sets). This leaves  $1500 - 1200$  or 300 students.
