Pollyanna (1960) - IMDb

Historically, an orphanage is a residential institution, or group home, devoted to the care of orphans and other children who were separated from their biological families. Examples of what would cause a child to be placed in orphanages are when the parents were deceased, the biological family was abusive to the child, there was substance abuse or mental illness in the biological home that was ...

Solo (family) | Wookieepedia | Fandom

Often in fiction, a character who starts out Conveniently an Orphan will pick up extremely loyal companions along the way. Sometimes, these relationships are forged through the fire of conflict, but with Families of Choice, it's a bit different. Members of a Chosen Family mourn the lack of family in their lives and decide to build one of their own out of people they care for and who care for ...

Family of Choice - TV Tropes

"Hugo" is unlike any other film Martin Scorsese has ever made, and yet possibly the closest to his heart: a big-budget, family epic in 3-D, and in some ways, a mirror of his own life. We feel a great artist has been given command of the tools and resources he needs to make a movie about - movies. That he also makes it a fable that will be fascinating for (some, not all) children is a measure ...

History | National Orphan Train Complex

Peter says every day had the same routine and it started with a 5 a.m. wake-up call. "The norm was someone would have to wake us up. And that was quite an experience, I remember, because sometimes you are tempted to sleep in a bit for a few minutes and your [houseman] would come in and pull all your sheets out and reprimand you for staying in bed after the lights have gone on," Peter says.
