The problem with integrated screens is that they raise the entire dash and make the car feel claustrophobic/have poor visibility. And the problem with gluing a screen to the dash (ahem C-class, A4) is that it just looks cheap and tacked on. Plus the dash of the C-class is already too high as it is. BMW did something clever by meeting halfway.

For the longest time, companies like BMW advertised that they have a perfect 50/50 weight distribution. This leads a lot of people into believing that this is optimal as far as weight distribution is concerned. I guess this would raise the question: Optimal for what? The answer to that question would be driving in perfect circles.

Stop and weight! A 50/50 weight distribution is not ...
