Guthrie emphasizes that we want to “take sin very seriously but not too seriously” (213), in that sin is neither the basic truth about our nature (see “image of God” above), nor stronger than God, so it is not really “the main thing” in Christian doctrine, though it is our main problem.

Well, Christian Doctrine speaks about the general theology of Christianity (obviously), albeit from a Reformed point of view. However, rather than Guthrie writing strictly from a Presbyterian point of view, he instead explains the "Reformed" view is more of a theology, something that any Christian from any denomination can follow and preach.
