Ive a friends four stroke 2006 2hp honda here that he says is not turning the prop. Apologies i dont have a model number yet. The split pin and all that seem ok as when i turn the prop i hear the shaft turn in the head. He said he was told by a mate that the centrifugal clutch has probably gone. Ive no idea what that is or where it is.

The "secondary" clutch mentioned before is called the change clutch. It works exactly like one on a dirt bike or sport quad but instead of the basket (outside) being driven by the crankshaft, it is driven by the centrifugal clutch (the "primary" clutch). The centrifugal clutch is driven by the crank shaft. And definitely get the shop manual.
