The gas discharge displays in the King radios is a known problem. Both the 155 and 165 suffer from that. King apparently has an LED fix for the gas discharge display, but it ain't cheap - not much less than the price used KX-155s are going for. If you have more than display problems with the radio I suspect your lowest cost solution is to find ...

Over the phone we went through what needed to be replaced and basically the price was brought back down to the original quote. The extra cost were suggestions I guess and they didn't tell me this at first until I refused the repair. I decided to get it fixed again and if something else comes up they are going to just exchange the radio.
