There is more to mastering reading than you might think. Students should not be considered proficient until they are reading with comprehension. This includes being able to take in meaning, to put it in context and to make inferences, all while reading. Ultimately, reading also requires metacognition, the ability to think critically about what is being read, to self-direct and adjust while ...

the NGSSS

The NGSS were developed by states to improve science education for all students. A goal for developing the NGSS was to create a set of research-based, up-to-date K–12 science standards. These standards give local educators the flexibility to design classroom learning experiences that stimulate students' interests in science and prepares them for college, careers, and citizenship.
