Myths Of Modern Individualism Faust

In this volume, Ian Watt examines the myths of Faust, Don Quixote, Don Juan and Robinson Crusoe, as the distinctive products of modern society. The four figures help to reveal the problems of individualism in the modern period: solitude, narcissism, and the claims of the self versus the claims of society.

Myths of Modern Individualism by Ian Watt

Myths of Modern Individualism is clear, well organized, and concise, yet it presents such a rich variety of facts and of subtle insights that it is difficult to summarize. But it does make an argument. This argument has less to do with myth - a relatively inert term as Watt uses it - than with individualism.

Myths of modern individualism : Faust, Don Quixote, Don ...

Watt's four defining myths of modern individualism are those of Faust, Don Quixote, Don Juan, and Robinson Crusoe. They are true "myths," he explains, precisely because they are characters whose stories somehow transcend the specific works in which they first appear; characters whose names are their stories, and whose stories are the lingua franca, the common coinage, of their culture.
