The VOCs in new electronics evaporate into the air that you breathe—that's why new electronics have a smell. But your new Nintendo Switch isn't filled with an unlimited supply of VOCs. Over time, all of the device's VOCs will evaporate into the air, and you'll be left with a smell-less heap of plastic.

Why Do New Electronics Have a Weird Smell?

Weird can be fashionable forward thinking but it's not always and I'd argue it's not usually unless there's a forward thinking artistic vision behind the weird that sees something new. Those electronic shirts that show wifi strength from a few years ago will never be fashionable but they definitely are weird.
