taxation information through ...
According to Irving Fisher (1930), rational decision makers will make the decision (e.g., borrow or lend) based on the market interest, so that present and future money can be equated.
However, even with interest rates and other factors taken into account, human behavior deviates greatly from predictions of prescriptive decision theories.
