Geography, in the sense I mean it, is the record of permanent places. An analogy might help here. Just off the Falls Trail at Sinks Canyon near Lander, there is a tree with a huge rock crushing into its trunk. The rock is to the tree (see the photograph to the left) what the geography of the Mediterranean, for example, is to its history.

Praise for The Geography of the Imagination. There is no way to prepare yourself for reading Guy Davenport. You stand in awe before his knowledge of the archaic and his knowledge of the modern. Even more, you stand in awe of the connections he can make between the archaic and the modern; he makes the remote familiar and the familiar fundamental.
