My brother bought this for my kids when they were little. It was always a favorite of theirs. We would also read this book to a friend's little girl which was a favorite of hers as well. So I had to buy it for her and let it be a book to always keep. My kiddos are older now but definitely will always keep!

On most days, solar noon does not occur at the same time as noon on your watch. Around the winter solstice, solar noon occurs a few minutes later than the previous day. For example, on December 21, 2012, the day of the Northern Hemisphere winter solstice—solar noon in New York is at 11:54 (11:54 a.m.).
