I thought the same but when people who shouldn't do engine swaps actually do an engine swap it's a nightmare the wiring is so bad it won't start the car alight , because who needs fuses , it's stalling I suspect coil is gone it's pinging from intake manifold, uses oil can't find a leak, it's Soo sluggish and * to drive I'd rather start on a fresh platform and do it properly with a ...

Best MK1 Engine Swap?

I am interested in doing a tdi engine swap, not into another golf or anything, but into a different car all together. I can fabricate an engine plate and motor mounts etc, as i have a milling machine and other various stuff, welders etc. I eventually plan to run it on SVO or biodiesel. It makes a difference in the swap.
