Despite the different car I have to you lot, the Golf R has the same engine bay. I've discovered this noise when I switch on my air con. The "A/C" button has to be on to hear it. If the fans are on only, the noise isn't there. The sound I can only describe as a kind of a remote control car coming from the engine bay. When I accelerate, this sound also revs up and down according to how I am ...

Took ownership of an 05 MKV GTI last night with 95,000km. During the test i noticed the air con did not blow much cold air. The owner said it would probably need a re-gas so took that into account with the price. I've recently read that the air con compressor can let go on these things. I just want to know how much i'd be looking at to fix this up?
